This study was conceived to better understand the role communication plays in enhancing organizational efficiency, particularly in manager-employee interactions. Driven by the growing need for seamless information flow in today's dynamic work environments, this research used a quantitative approach. The responses were analyzed with SPSS, generating frequency tables and conducting multiple regression analysis to test the study's hypothesis. The results confirmed a significant and positive relationship between communication and organizational efficiency. This underscores the importance of cultivating strong communication channels. It also emphasizes that managers need to provide timely and constructive feedback, and organizations must eliminate barriers to the smooth exchange of information. By aligning with existing literature and offering practical recommendations, this research contributes to the broader discussion on organizational performance.
