Understanding "The Breadwinner" Novel

"The Breadwinner" is a critically acclaimed novel written by Deborah Ellis, first published in 2000. The story is set in Taliban-controlled Afghanistan and centers on an eleven-year-old girl named Parvana who disguises herself as a boy to support her family after her father's arrest. The novel offers a poignant perspective on the struggles faced by women and children in war-torn regions. Its compelling narrative and authentic portrayal have made it a popular choice in educational settings worldwide.

Plot Overview

The novel follows Parvana's journey as she navigates the dangerous streets of Kabul in disguise, working to provide for her mother and siblings. Through her eyes, readers witness the harsh realities of life under oppressive regimes and the resilience required to survive. The story is both a personal coming-of-age tale and a broader commentary on social injustice and human rights.

Author Background

Deborah Ellis is a Canadian author known for her socially conscious children's books. Her works often focus on themes of poverty, conflict, and the strength of the human spirit.
