Understanding the TEAS Test Structure

The Test of Essential Academic Skills (TEAS) assesses fundamental skills necessary for success in healthcare education. It consists of four primary sections: Reading, Mathematics, Science, and English and Language Usage. Each section carries a specific weight and number of questions, designed to evaluate a candidate's proficiency in critical academic areas.

Reading Section

The reading section measures comprehension and analysis skills, including understanding passages, interpreting data, and drawing conclusions. Questions may focus on main ideas, supporting details, and author's purpose, reflecting the practical reading demands in healthcare contexts.

Mathematics Section

This section tests basic arithmetic, algebra, data interpretation, and measurement concepts. It evaluates a candidate's ability to solve problems accurately and efficiently, skills essential for dosing calculations and other healthcare-related math tasks.

Science Section

The science portion covers human anatomy and physiology, biology, chemistry, and scientific reasoning. This section demands a solid grasp of scientific principles and the ability to apply them in clinical scenarios.

English and Language Usage Section

This section assesses grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, and vocabulary. Proficiency in these areas ensures effective communication, a critical skill in healthcare settings.

review each question systematically. Analyze why the correct answer is right and why alternative options are incorrect to reinforce understanding.

Focus on Weak Areas
